Please could I have all copy for the October issue by Midnight on Friday, 24th September? If you normally prepare your material using a computer, it would make my life easier if you could submit your offering in electronic form, though paper is, of course, fine. My 'official' e-mail address is news-editor@oxhill.org.uk if you wish to send me stuff that way.

OXHILL VILLAGE HALL

On Sunday, 22nd August, the Village Hall Committee carried out some much-needed maintenance on the Hall and was successful in getting a few volunteers to assist on the day. Amongst other tasks, we cleared out the entrance hall annexe, cleaned out the gutters, re-organised the store room and the kitchen cupboards and carried out some painting on the Hall itself and the surrounding, and now gleaming, railings.

I'm not going to single out any of our helpers because everyone worked very hard and in the end we achieved more than we expected to do. We had people from the existing committee, people who used to be on the committee and a few people with great community spirit to help with all of the tasks and we're grateful to them all.

We finished a very successful day with a simple BBQ and a couple of drinks in the afternoon sun for all those who came along and helped.

So if, when you drive or walk past the Village Hall, you notice the gleaming white railings or the re-painted fascia boards or when you next use the Hall you notice the welcoming entrance lobby or the improved toilets you just might think 'seldom has so much been owed by so many to so few'.

DEANERY GARDEN PARTY

The sun shone, we kept running out of chairs, and the car park field was very neary full! A massive thank you to so many people for bringing themselves and each other, and for supplying cakes, and in particular Rene, Liz and Ros for brewing and serving endless cups of tea, and for mountains of washing up. Thanks too to my family, for ground support services viz-a-viz chairs, tables, sandwich making and a gazebo.

As I write this on the Monday morning, there is eight inches of water where the cars were parked. So 'Thank you, Lord, for that fine day'!

NATURE NOTES FOR SEPTEMBER

September is the month of plenty; hops, apples and other fruit, and was the month of reaping, although these days the harvest is cut and stored by the beginning of September. There was a tradition that the last sheaf had to be cut in a particular manner. In some counties it was reaped by the youngest maid or lad on the farm and must not touch the ground before being carried home in much triumph and rejoicing. In many other areas about a square foot of standing corn was left and plaited together, and all the reapers threw their sickles at it until one managed to cut it down, whereupon he cried “got the mare” or “cut the gander’s neck”. Regardless of how it was cut, the last sheaf was often dressed in women’s clothes or plaited into a corn dolly. ‘She’ then presided over the Harvest Home feast and was carefully kept for luck until the next harvest.

It would appear that this year is yielding an abundance of fruit, and with the fruit come the wasps, and like the fruit they seem more abundant this year. The workers have now finished looking after the young and are attracted to the ripening fruit. Most people seem to hate wasps, but they should not be destroyed unless their nests are very close to the house where there are very young or old people, or people who are allergic to their stings. Bees feed their young on pollen and nectar, but wasps feed theirs on animal matter, including a great number of insect pests and dead carcasses, and their role as biological control agents is largely unappreciated. Unlike bees, wasps do not make their nests from wax but instead scrape wood fragments from gates, fences or sheds, chew it to a pulp and create ‘paper’ which they use to construct the nest. If you have never seen one, they are one of nature’s wonders (the wasps vacate them and die by the end of Autumn). The name wasp is from Old Teutonic, waeps or waesp, and is related to ‘weave’, which refers to the way the nest is created. In the sixteenth century ‘waspish’ described irritating, aggressive or tetchy behaviour – ‘if I be waspish, best beware my sting’ – The Taming of the Shrew, Act 2, Scene 1.

Harvest suppers or Harvest-home dinners, variously called ‘horkeys’, ‘mell suppers’, ‘kern feasts’ and ‘clyacks’ were generally held everywhere by the end of the first week of September. What a great pity we seem to have lost this tradition.

“To make a rich frumenty for ten persons. Steep one pound of whole grains of what in water overnight, and then boil the steeped grains in one pint of milk until the whole be soft. Add thereto raisins and sultanas, honey, a nutmeg freshly grated, a little cinnamon, brandy and cream: and serve it forth hot or cold.”

(Mistress Barton’s Cookery Book, 1680).

CIRCUIT TRAINING

I am part of a group who do circuit training at Walton Hall on a Thursday evening; age ranges from teenagers to 50 year olds, men and women. We have lost a few over the summer and the class is at risk of being cancelled, so anyone (yes anyone !) who fancies a bit of fairly vigorous exercise to raise a thirst is welcome to join us. Circuit training is as hard as you choose to make it, and is great all over body conditioning. The class is run by a lady who is part of the fitness team at Stratford Leisure Centre and costs £6. If you'd like to know more please call me on 680451 or email paul.r.sayer@btinternet.com.

CAT ON A COLD TILED ROOF

Jonathan & Kirsty Simpson of The Old Bakehouse would like to thank all the good people of Oxhill who assisted us in retrieving our cat Homer (yes we know!!) from the roof of Springfield on Main Street on 3rd August. Our hapless moggie disappeared on the evening of the 2nd, much mewing in the dark ensued which was finally pinpointed to the aforementioned roof. George & Gwyn Adams kindly let us trample around their garden (sorry!!) in an effort to get Homer down, alas he was having none of it. In the morning he was enjoying a peaceful nap on the chimney when his crazed, half asleep owners reappeared to coax him down. Alas we were again shown to be useless at this & trekked off to work, leaving our key with George. On returning from work that afternoon we found that he was still sunbathing on high, George had attempted to get him down with food & a step ladder but assured me that a larger ladder had been summoned. Our knight in shining armour (or small blue van), Graham Colledge arrived shortly after with a roof ladder. Some scrambling & a nuzzle (aaahhh) from Homer later he had him back on terra firma. As I write Homer has had 2 dinners & is sleeping peacefully on the sofa. Thank you so much to everyone who helped & the concerned passers by (some fully prepared with cat biscuits) - just goes to show what a wonderful & friendly village we live in. A special thank you must go to Mrs Sinclair of Springfield for the loan of her roof. Homer is under strict instruction not to repeat this but has never listened to anything else I have advised him so I can't promise!

Many thanks,

Jonathan Simpson

VICARAGE NOTES

Thought for the month

I thought that August was going to be a quiet month with an opportunity to catch up on those odd jobs that have been waiting around for ages – no such luck! With continuing events and activities, a significant number of pastoral visits to hospitals and hospices, and dealing with admin. challenges, time has been in short supply.

In sorting out charities' business, I've realised life is becoming quite a struggle. As the difficult economic climate continues, donations are not going up and investment income has fallen. However, the Government is asking the voluntary sector to step in and work more for the transforming of communities. How about legislation requiring banks etc. to offer the same rates of interest to charities as offered to personal account holders – that would help prime the system!

Charities including churches strive to take a lead in transforming communities and a clear piece of teaching is found in the "Beatitudes" in Matthew 7:1-12. Blessed indeed are all who unselfishly work for others.

All are specially welcome to the Harvest service on the 26th – and don't forget the pig roast on the 11th.

God bless,

Nicholas Morgan 01608 685230
